Now that her night of sorrow and death is o'er,
She'll walk 'midst lovely flowers forevermore;
For God, in all His wisdom, in the skies
Has made a place for every flower that dies,
And she shall find eternal peace above,
For from her flowers she's learned that "God is love."

The School Year 1921-22

ANOTHER year of glorious achievement is written upon the pages of Business High School history. Business truly had a banner year! Not only have her regular enterprises been successful, but she has taken an active part in the affairs of the nation. Foremost among these was the guard of honor to Marshal Foch formed by Business girls and boys.

The most important activities of the school have been very successful. The Students' Council has had a very busy time; the Bank has increased its personnel and its depositors; the Balance Sheet has had a prosperous year, its subscribers having numbered almost one thousand; the Book Shop has made rapid strides; our athletes, while not champions, have proven themselves to be able opponents; our cadets have been glorious; our debating has been unexcelled and our Spring Play, "Such a Little Queen," was a triumph of art. The Alumni Association has been very active with its monthly dances at "2400," its January Vaudeville, and its Annual Excursion to Chesapeake Beach.

There has been no year so imbued with the old fighting spirit of Business, no year so marked for its strides made by Alumni, teachers, and students for a greater and better Business—in a new school building.

IN a year remarkably successful for the Alma Mater, the Alumni Association felt themselves called upon to extend and intensify their already far-reaching activities for old Business High School. It is because of a thoroughly efficient and loyal staff of officers and executive committee that one truly realizes the Alumni's work for the school year 1921-1922 as a model of industry and success.

Undoubtedly, foremost in the minds of the Alumni was the question of a new Business High School with adequate facilities for every phase and interest of student life. It is to Jimmy Wilkes and his able committee that the school and Association are indebted for worthy service in this endeavor. If diligence can persuade the authorities that a new school is absolutely essential to the community of Washington, we may look with confidence into the near future for the laying of the cornerstone of a school worthy of the spirit that Business now contains. The vaudeville performance, so capably handled by John "Pat" Reilly, not only helped to finance projects for a new school, but also proved that the heart of every Alumnus is in sincere accord with the movement.

Through the executive ability and willing service of Miss Lanigan, the popular monthly dances at "2400" were successfully conducted. Under the well disciplined pen of Editor Schweinhaut and the gifted camel's brush of Vernon Snow, the Alumni Record, our paper, dutifully distributed by that ever business-like Colonel, found its way into the home of every graduate. The highly vital and invaluable work of the Alumni Employment Department was signally significant this year in the number of students helped to responsible positions. The untiring efforts and remarkable results of this organization reflect great credit upon its efficient director, Miss Watts, who has been identified with it for many years. The faculty banquet, an innovation in Alumni get-togethers, was carried out exceptionally well and the committee in charge is to be warmly complimented for its services. However, it remained for the classic of the Alumni year, the excursion, to bring out the true worth of this year's organization. That the excursion at Chesapeake Beach was the best Business ever had was the unqualified opinion of an experienced jury of old Business celebrities.

If the wonderful work of this highly organized Alumni Association is to continue its progress, each graduate must join the organization. Such a call from your school must never go unanswered.

The Four-Year February Class

HAVING been honored with the office of President of the Four-Year February Class of 1922, it is incumbent upon me to speak for my classmates. At this time, we pause to get our bearings and reflect upon our sojourn here. Four years ago we entered Business High School. There were many of us then. We came, not only into the school, but into its activities as well. We helped swell the ranks of the cadet corps, we gave our brawn to the athletic teams, and we have always been on the lookout for an opportunity to better our school. The spring play, the drill, the games, the Balance Sheet—in fact, all the institutions of the school—have felt our influence and prospered under it. No other class has had its social life so full as ours. Our picnics, parties, and dances have brought us into closer association with one another and have been the basis of fast friendships. Together we have shared the burdens of our class and of our school. From many causes our ranks have been depleted, and now there are only a few of us to share the victory of graduation.

We now start out into what wise men call the dark mystery of life. We hold aloft our diplomas as beacons to guide us through the maze. They radiate the light of experience and knowledge gained by four years of association with Washington's finest students. The scene is shifted, though the show's the same. Now we must go struggling upward, not as a class but as individuals. In years to come, when the strife is hardest and when burdens oppress, we have but to remember old Business for inspiration to fight anew. The spirit of Business we shall take with us; we cannot lose it, for it is the embodiment of all that is good.

HUGO H. THIRAN, President.

Class Song

Tune: "Leave Me With a Smile"

We came to Business just four short years ago.
After such good times we hate to leave you so.
We've had our troubles; in fact, we've had our share;
Now that we are leaving, for troubles we don't care.

CHORUS:

Now we must be leaving,
Though our hearts are grieving
For old Business High
We will ne'er forget you,
And will ever be true
To old Business High.
We know it's forever;
So, before we sever
Ties at Business High,
We'll suppress a tear, and
Give a hearty cheer, for
Dear old Business High.

Valedictory

SINCE the President of our class is also our highest in scholarship, and therefore our valedictorian, he has shared with me his honors, and has asked me, as second in rank, to say for him what is in all our hearts.

The time has come when the Four-Year Graduating Class of February, 1922, must bid farewell to Business High School. There is nothing so hard to say to those whom we love dearly as that one word "farewell." We have heard many classes say it with regret, and have known that they felt it deeply, but we never realized how reluctantly it was expressed until we came to speak it. Of course, the hearty wish of welfare that the word implies is spoken with good will; but it is from the thought of leave-taking that we shrink. Probably you, our parents, and our friends, have experienced the lump in your throat or the tear that somehow just happened to escape when you said good-bye to your Alma Mater.

It was but four short years ago that we entered Business High School as inexperienced Freshmen. During these years we have become accustomed to high school life, have passed through the different stages of advancement, and have experienced the thrills of being Seniors.

Today we pass a milestone. After tonight we become Freshmen again; for tomorrow we start as beginners in college or in business. Before we say good-bye, I want to express our appreciation of the privilege it has been to attend Business High School. We are grateful to our parents for sending us, to our teachers for what they have taught us.

As for the school—may her athletes win all the loving cups, her captains all the banners, her students all the scholarships. May these victories arouse added interest in our school and provide for her a new building. And when in 1945 the class comes back to mark its next milestone by a real Senior banquet in the new laboratory, may every member answer "Present."

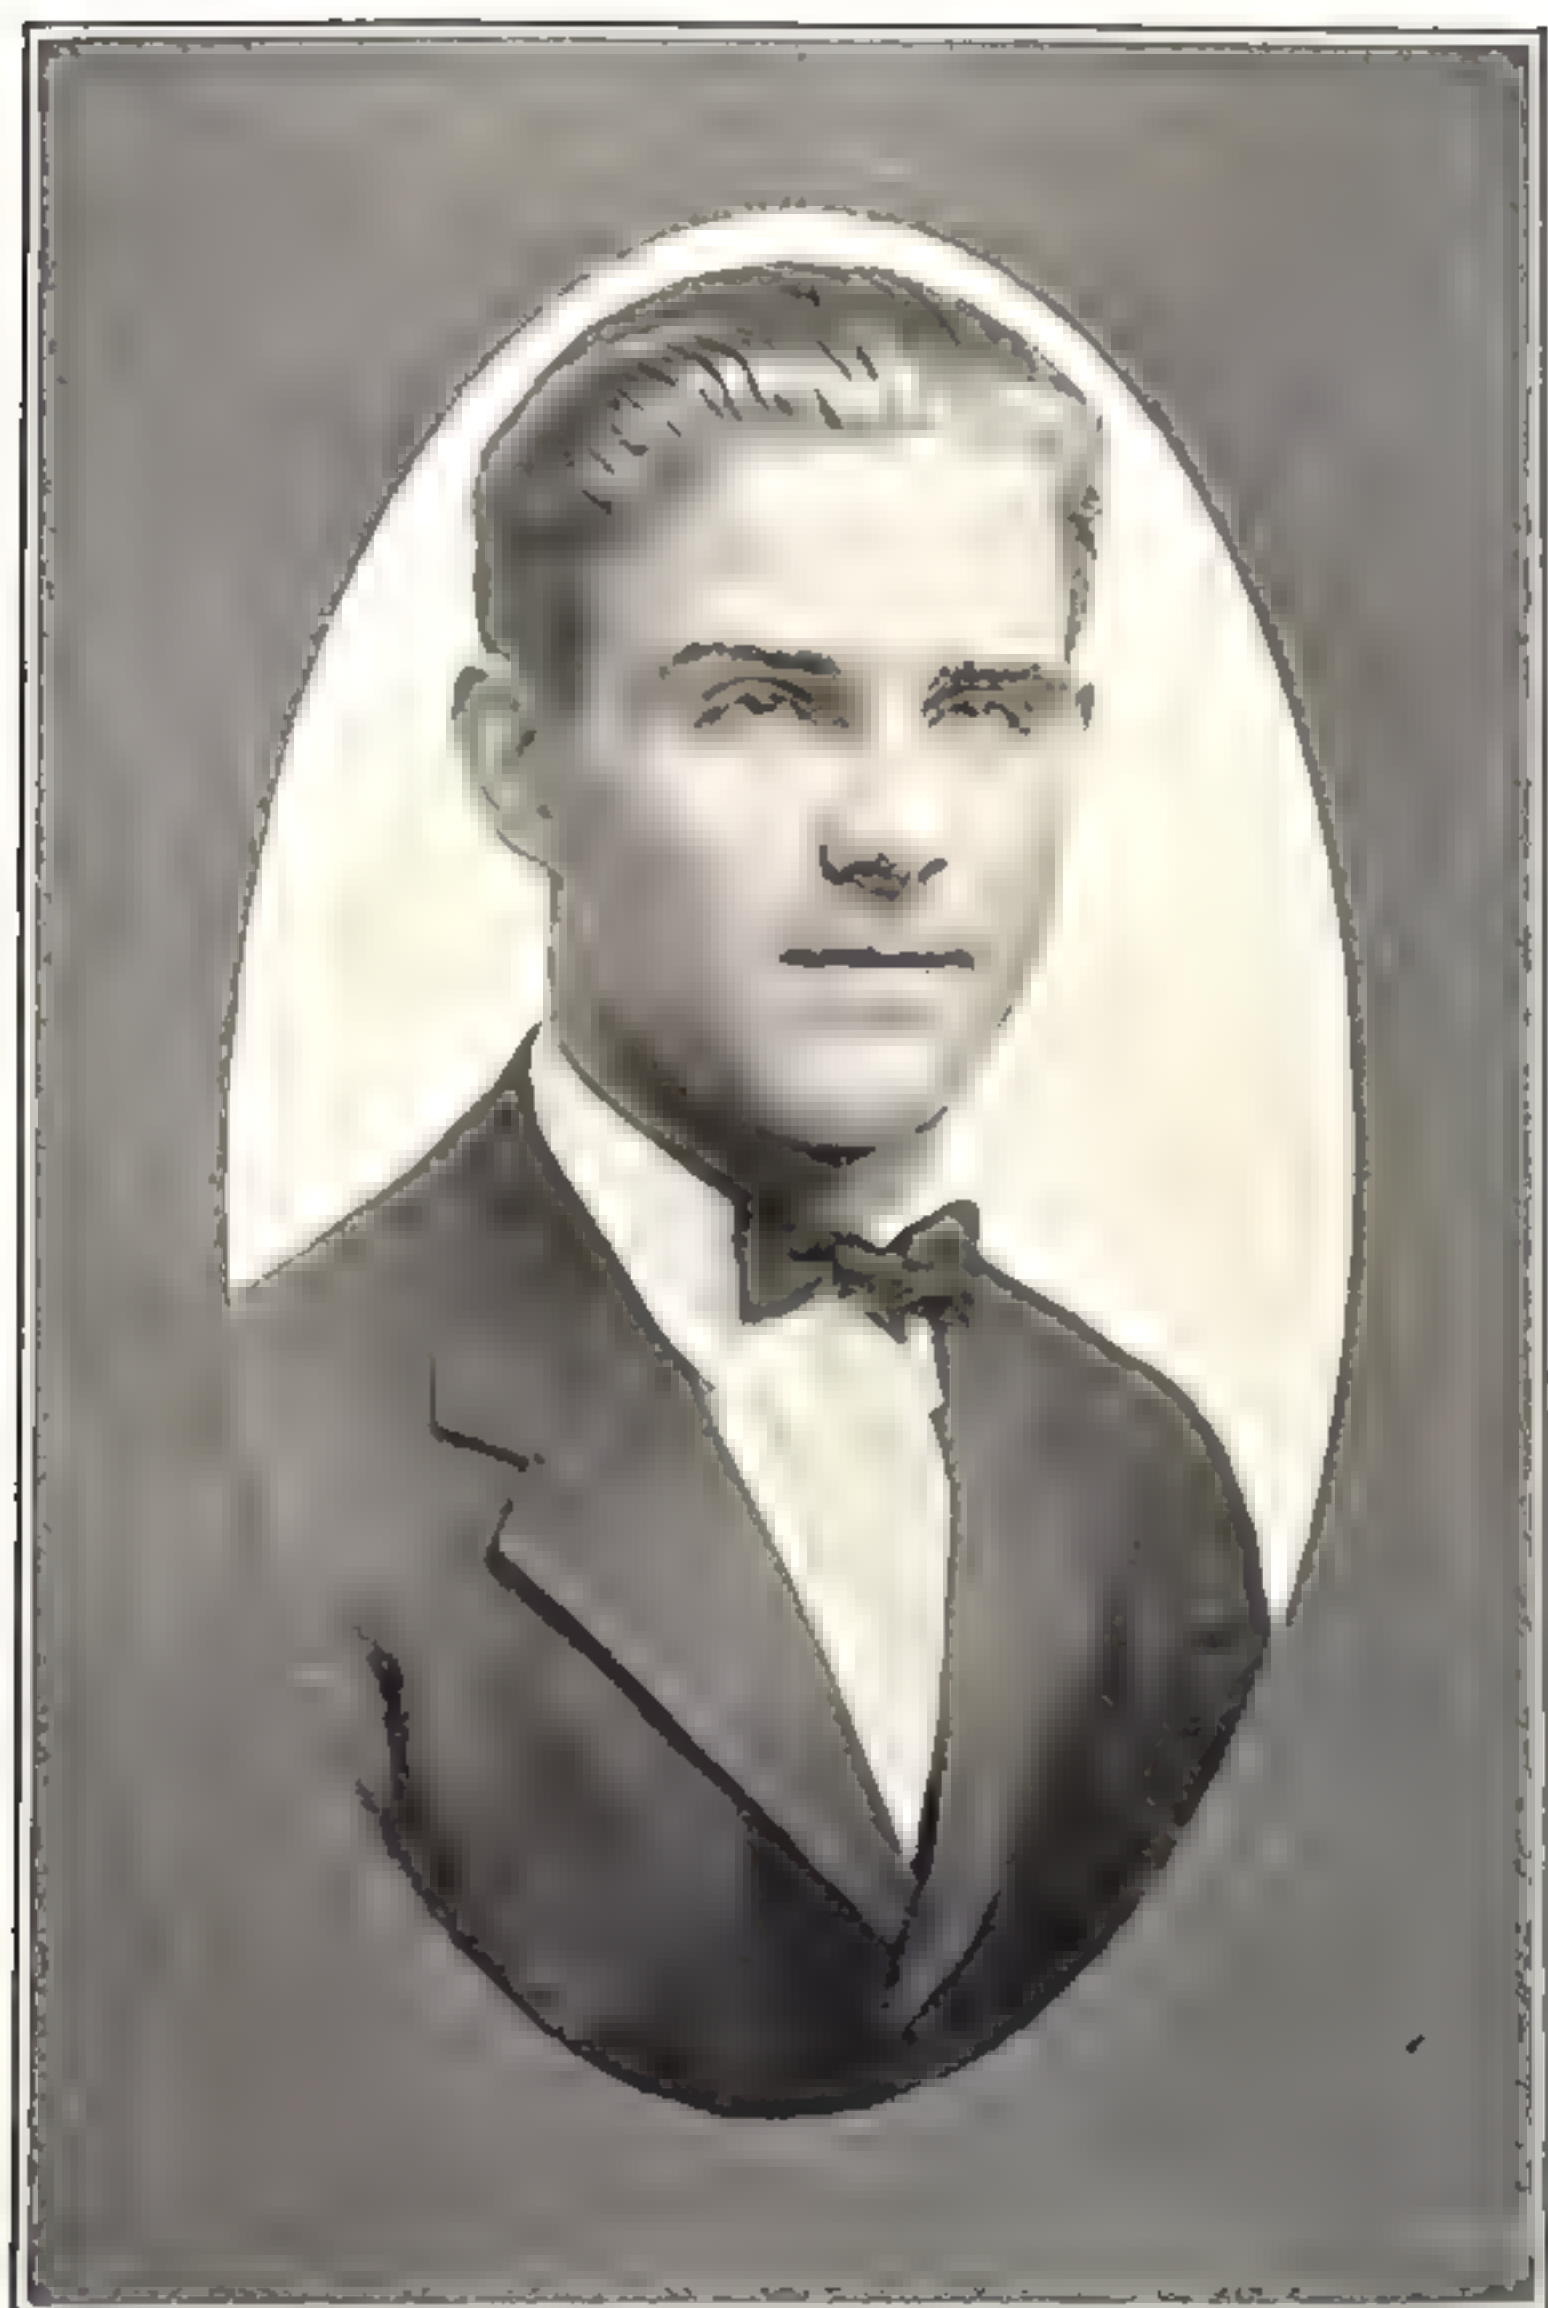

And now the class of 1922 bids you farewell.

MARION E. WEYER.

The Four-Year June Class

AS our school days draw to a close and on the horizon is revealed the dawn of a new day, it is fitting that we pay homage to our Alma Mater, who has moulded our characters, and given us fortitude and courage to surmount the difficulties of this world. It is hard to believe that four years have gone by. But while time has been weaving the pattern of our lives, much knowledge has been gained.

Let us here pause awhile, gaze backward down the corridor of time and in retrospect span the chasm that separates us from our Freshman year, recalling with what awe we ventured into this great institution. Then we were inexperienced rookies, unprepared for the battle of life. Recall the day that stately Senior called us down for walking up the wrong steps or the wonderful thrill of our first visit to Room 18. Those were even greater thrills when we carried home that first report of our high school days, when we went to the drill and Company "E" came off with third place, when Business had the undefeated basketball team that year and beat Central twice. Recall our pleasant Sophomore and Junior years when we became better acquainted with Business, when we started to work for our school just for the pleasure of helping our Alma Mater.

Now that we are Seniors, we wonder whether we have benefited as we should have from what our high schools days had to offer. We trust that we have.

It is especially appropriate that, as we leave this school as students, we pay our tribute to the faculty, who have been our true friends and guides in our endeavors to acquire the knowledge of our seeking. We shall never forget their ready assistance and willing helpfulness when we were confronted with our school-day problems. We had but to ask for assistance and it was readily granted, often at a personal sacrifice on their part. We appreciate, too, the kindly guidance of Mr. Davis, our Principal, who has presided over us during these years at school. May the never-ending influence of Business High relieve the tension of our hurrying lives and the sweetness of her memories comfort us through all our years.

We stand at the open portal of a new phase of life and look into the future. Behind us lie four years of work and preparation; before us—what? We do not know. You have done your duty, Alma Mater, to us as well as to hundreds of others who have gone before us. You have prepared us; it is now for us to prove our worth.

Farewell, Alma Mater! You have served us well! Our paths lead away from your protecting walls. But though we go, we cherish fond memories, and some day we shall return to tell you what we have found at the end of the path.

ALFRED MCGARRAGHY, President.

Class Poem

Afar on the ocean of learning,
We have traveled the unknown seas;
We have learned the secrets of ages
That come to us on each breeze.
We have pored o'er each volume of knowledge
In our search for higher goals,
And now that we have attained them,
The world before us unfolds.

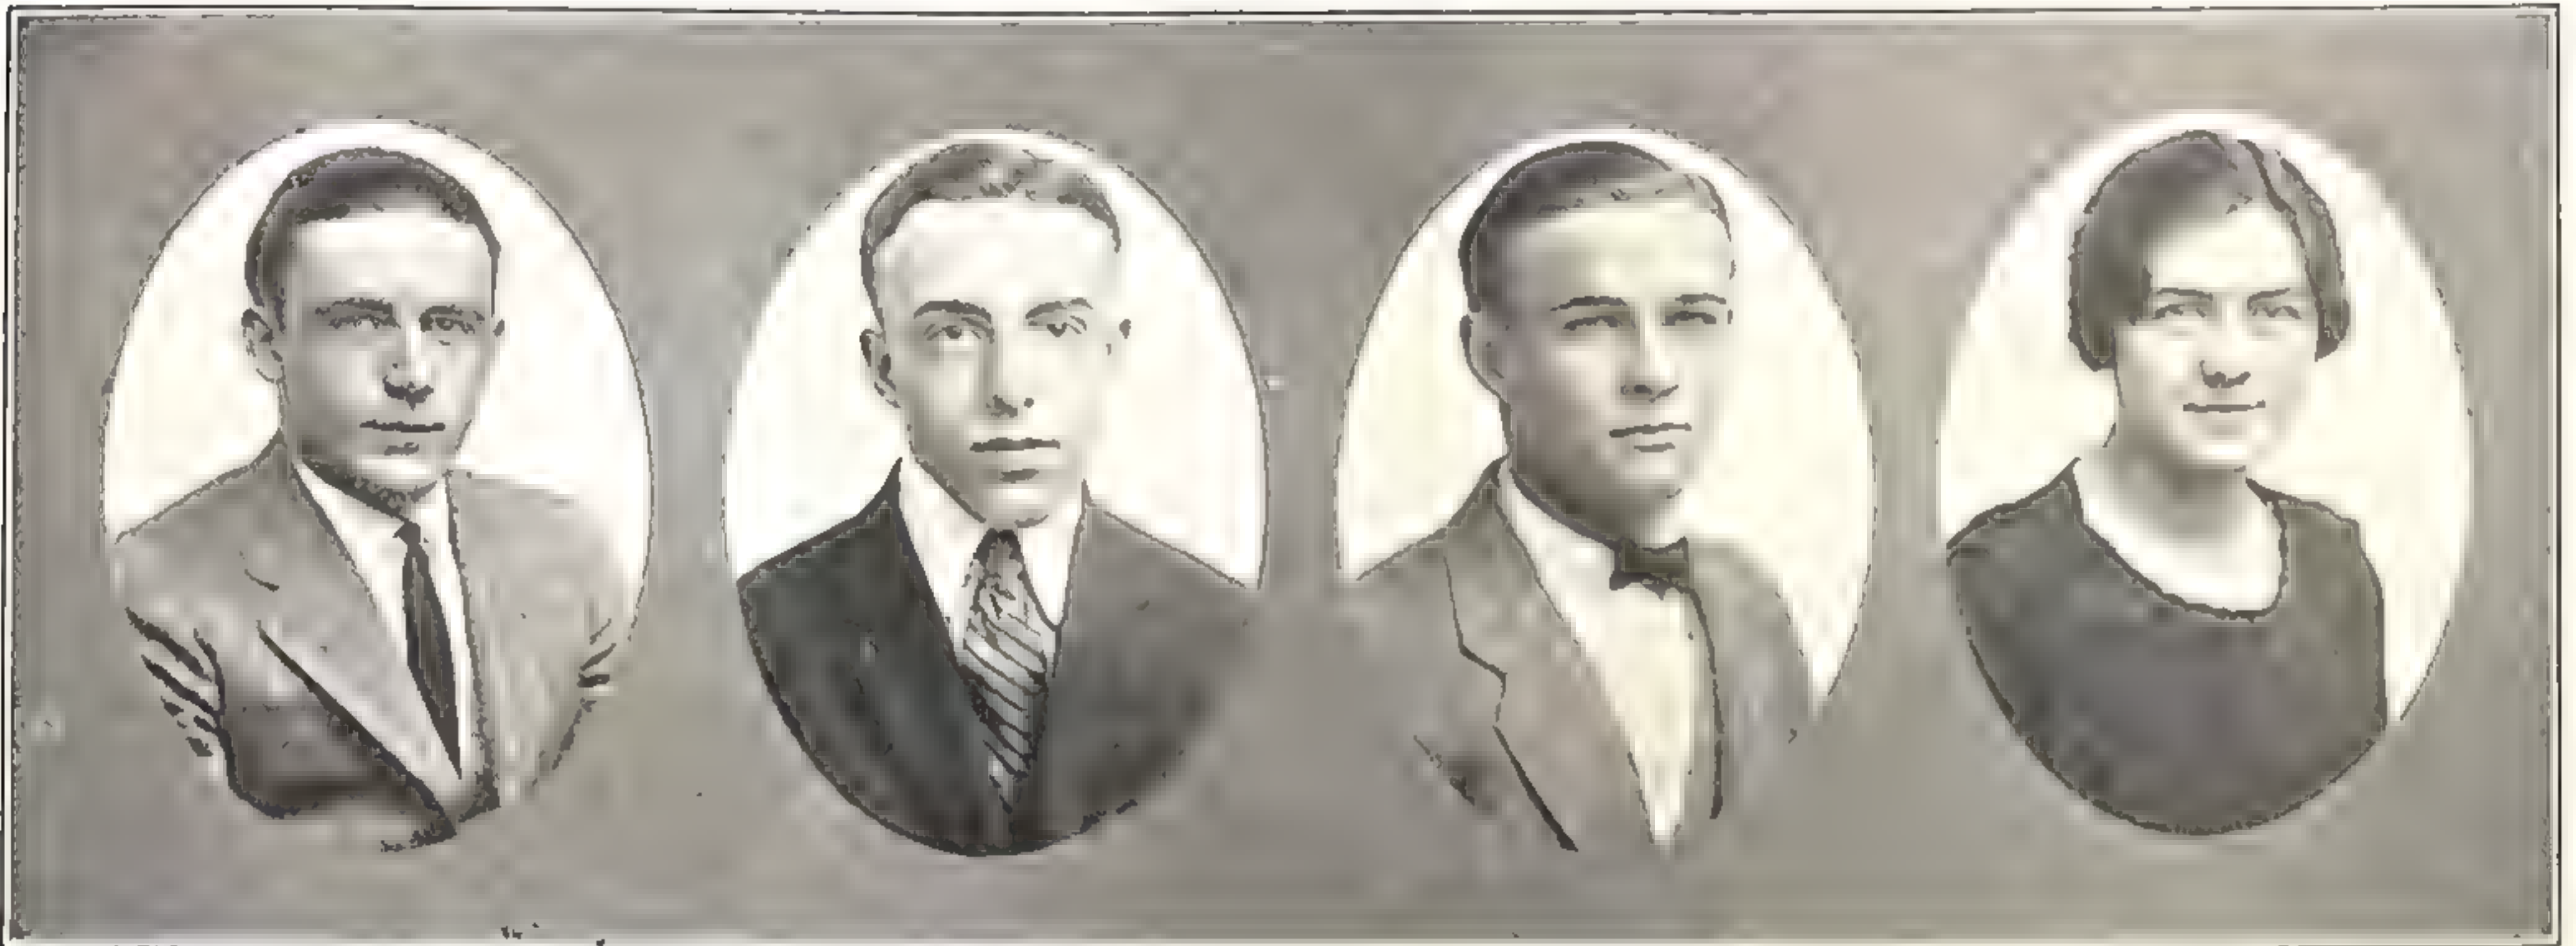

But we feel only sorrow at leaving
The school where as youngsters we came.
She has given us of her wisdom,
On our hearts has emblazoned her name.
Now, we must leave Business High School
And journey on to success.
We go to a higher learning,
And the fame we long to possess.

We go—it means leaving Business,
And our teachers patient and true,
The old familiar haunts we love,
And our colors, the Orange and Blue;
But memories sweet will linger,
And if we should chance to roam,
We'll remember with passionate longing
The best days we've ever known.

The ship is nearing harbor—
It is time for us to depart.
There's a tear drop in each eye,
And an ache in every heart.
There's a breathless prayer upon our lips,
As we softly say good-bye.
"May God protect and bless you,
Farewell, dear Business High."

FRANC H. SCHREINER.

TRENT AINSWORTH

"Milestones," 1922
Inter-semester Basketball, 1922
Senior Vaudeville Show, 1922
Of all the boys at Business
In the class of '22
Our Ainsworth is the only one
With hair of red and eyes of blue.
He burns the midnight oil, they say,
He'll be an actor great some day.

VICTOR ALBAGLI

Cadets, 1918-20-21-22
Stage Work, 1920-21
Lieutenant, Co. E, 1921-22
Me-Ma-So Club, 1921-22
"Still water runs deep," an old adage,
With Victor it surely is true,
For though he's not heard, he works like a "bird,"
Whatever he starts he will do.
His drilling is fine; he's hard to be beat,
He's an all around fellow, whom you'd like to meet.

GEORGE ARTHUR ANADALE

"Such a Little Queen," 1922
Diamonds which glitter and sparkle
Are costly to purchase, you know,
But the diamonds on Anadale's shoulder
Are the kind that are hardest to show.
However, we have this great asset;
For he's an important young man,
And besides, in looks you can't beat him,
But you're welcome to try if you can.

ALINE DAY ANDERSON

Glee Club, 1920-21
Aline works in the office,
She's staid and dignified,
She reads the Bible every morn,
In that she takes much pride.
She's loved by all; her nature's fine,
So cheerful, patient, and so kind.

RUTH ASHFORD

Girls' Rifle Team, 1920
Junior Red Cross, 1920
She's quiet, yes, we know all that,
But, my, can't she recite?
She is not thin, she is not fat,
But just a tiny mite.

ALICE ANITA BARON

None will forget our nightingale,
Oh, surely we mean Alice.
Like Galli-Curci she can sing,
They need her at the Palace.

Viola's just as modest
As her name implies,
And her eyes are just the oddest—
Like the stars up in the skies.

DORIS MERZ BAUMAN

Morality Play, 1921
Dramatic Society, 1922
Now Doris likes to giggle;
That's where her talents lie.
A dancer, and a sport she is,
And with the boys, oh my!
With hair of black, and eyes the same—
Oh, well, you know she's not to blame.

Here is the picture of a lad
Who loves his studies well.
He is a star in Chemistry,
In Math he does excel.
He hates the girls, yes, one and all,
But some fine day he's sure to fall.

B FOR BASKETBALL, 1919-20-21-22
All our praise is needless,
Just mention Boofie Tew.
She's known to everybody,
And there's nothing she can't do.
Her basket-ball, oh glory!
It's something grand, alive,
And when she's over forty,
She'll still dream of her "five."

ETHEL VIRGINIA TUCK

Laughter, fun, and gayety
Coupled with sharp wit.
She isn't at all serious,
And doesn't care a bit.
She's ready with her laughter,
And always has a pun,
That's our sweetest Ethel—
Always out for fun.

Valedictory

TONIGHT we, the June class of 1922, must bid farewell to Business. From the time of our coming to this school until now, we have been looking forward to this—our graduation. During the four short and happy years which are now drawing rapidly to a close, we learned to realize that the successful school career meant the survival of the fittest, and we went to work determined to win. We have now reached the climax and have acquitted ourselves with honors, but since the first flush of victory has passed, we realize that we must leave behind the school we have learned to love, and climb still higher on the ladder of success.

Our Principal and Faculty are deserving of all the praise and thanks that we, as graduates, can give them. They encouraged us when our ambitions were at ebb, and they shared with us our disappointments and our triumphs. We shall miss their valuable friendship, but we shall not forget! For their sake, if for no other, we shall be worthy of their trust and shall carry on!

Tonight we sever the bonds of our close relationship with the school life at Business; but we have, in so doing, been assigned to a higher trust—to uphold the traditions of our school in whatever station in life we may hold. And, dear Business, we shall not fail! The Alumni of Business High stand ready to receive us into their ranks. There we shall do everything we can to uplift and uphold the ideals of this school which for four years has sheltered us within its walls.

We now stand ready to take our places in life. We are armed with the knowledge and trust that our school has given us and are confident of our ability to persevere, let come what may.

The time has come when we must all part and each must travel along the path of life he has chosen. So now, dear Business, on the eve of our graduation we, the June Class of 1922, bid you farewell!

FLORENCE RIZZO.

Class Song

(Tune: "Smilin' Through.")

The days of our school life are over at last,
And we leave our old school with a sigh.

Now the world we will face,
And with it keep pace,
So we sadly say
Farewell, old Business High!

Farewell, old school, for we bid you good-bye;
You have been a true friend, Business High.
That all pleasures have endings

Is only too true—
So we sadly say
Farewell—Farewell—Good-bye.

MARIE COLLINS.

The Two-Year February Class

WHEN we entered Business High School two short years ago we came as rookies, strangers to each other and to our Alma Mater. Since then we have enjoyed the pleasant times that have come from our association with each other, and from the social relationships which it has been the aim of our principal and faculty to promote. We have made friends, the intimacy of whose friendship will be one of the great assets of our lives.

Our efforts, coupled with the stimulus of good-natured rivalry, have brought us to this, our graduation, and will carry us on, out, and into the commercial world where many of us will obtain positions. Some of us will follow in the footsteps of our Alumni who have earned for themselves the respect and esteem of the commercial world; some will enter other fields of usefulness, but I am sure that all of us, whatever we do, will meet our work with the energy, hardiness, courage, and fortitude which have been taught us by our Alma Mater.

When we entered our school, little did we think how much we would eventually grow to love her, and now that the time has come for us to go, there is a feeling of deep regret that we have not longer to stay. In leaving, our one great wish is that the friends we have made may continue their friendship, and that we may go into the world keeping the high standards and ideals of Business High School ever before us.

In behalf of the class, I wish to thank Mr. Davis and the members of the faculty for their efforts in fitting us for our future.

W. H. HARMON, President.

Class Poem

Business! we stand where the ways are dividing;
One way leads back through the paths we have known.
While, on the other, our footsteps are gliding,
Timidly out in the great world, alone.
We must go forth, though the going may grieve us,
Though we would linger in paths that we know;
Life stretches out its wide arms to receive us,
All the world calls!—and thy children must go.

Dearer than all the sweet visions of pleasure,
All the fair dreams that the future may hold,
Are the bright thoughts of the past that we treasure,
Memories richer and purer than gold.
Though we go now, to return to thee never,
Deep in our hearts thy bright image shall dwell;
We are thy children and shall be forever!
We will remember thee, Business! Farewell!

Class Song

Air: "A Perfect Day"

When we come to the end of our high school days,
And the things that we hold most dear,
When it's time to part with our youthful ways,
And to start out on life's career,
We will always remember our grand old school
With its colors of orange and blue,
And whate'er the strife we find in this life,
To our school we will be true.

When we come to the end of our high school days,
And the time draws near to part
From our teachers, class, and friends so gay,
And the things that lie near our heart,
We must bid farewell to our grand old school
To her standards we'll always be true,
And a prosperous, long, and happy life
Is our parting wish to you.

MARGUERITE A. CROSON.

Margaret Byrne The Two-Year June Class

THE Two-Year Class of June, 1922, brings its greetings.

We are come as candidates for certificates—certificates which signify to the men and women of the business world that we have accomplished something; that we have received certain technical training which will enable each of us to take a place in the community as a self-supporting economic unit.

There is much agitation now for vocational training—our school stands for it. We of the two-year class are examples of it. But our school stands for vocational training in its broadest sense. Our curriculum is of such a type as to give a pupil this technical training in the first two years—a firm foundation for business success—and, in addition, to give him that general information that is so essential to good citizenship.

Many of us are coming back for two years more. We are indeed happy to look forward to two more years in Business. But there are some to whom this occasion means severance from the school.

For them I say a fond farewell to Business, and to them I give an affectionate message from those whom they leave in the school, a message which says, "We're expecting you to live up to the high standard which has been set by former Business students," and "We're with you."

All of us have profited by these two years, and we are indebted to Mr. Davis and the teachers for most of this gain. We thank them!

May our contributions in the future reveal that noble spirit and those high ideals which our school life in Business has thus far inculcated in us.

ROBERT M. GREENWOOD, President.

Class Poem

Farewell, dear school, farewell!
'Tis sad to part from thee.
Though we should laurels nobly gain
Or bravely fight, perchance in vain,
Still thou shalt evermore remain
A cherished memory.

Farewell, school mates, farewell!
Fond memories dim the eye,
And though from our dear friends we part,
Each well-loved face, endearing thought,
Remains engraven on the heart.
Good-bye, school mates, good-bye!

Cadets

THE cadet companies of Business High have this year worked hard to uphold the standards of Business, and have displayed a never-die spirit, which is an important factor in the success of any company. One of the chief difficulties experienced was that both companies had only five squads at the beginning of the year; but this was overcome by the enlistment of the rookies in February, when two full six-squad companies were attained. The new cadets fell in quickly and the companies were whipped into shape.

This year Business has four staff officers: Lieutenant Colonel Anadale, Major Middleton, Captain Goodwin, and Lieutenant Louis. These men deserve much credit for the many things they have done to better the Business companies.

Company E, commanded by Captain Hahn, is composed of the smaller cadets, but better drillers would be hard to find. Captain Hahn fully appreciates the splendid work done by his officers and the men in the company. They have always obeyed orders promptly and their willingness to learn has made it a pleasure to work with them.

Company I, commanded by Captain Sincell, is composed of the larger men, who have made rapid strides. Captain Sincell attributes this advancement to his officers and non-coms. These men have been on the alert for mistakes, have encouraged the fighting spirit in the men, and have made them realize that anything other than strict attention to drill undermines the solid foundation on which a perfect organization is built.

Company M, of the Columbia Junior High School, commanded by Captain Botsch, of Business, has often during the year proved its worth. The company has shown great spirit and promises to put up a good fight on the Drill Field.

At the time of this writing, the war game team has won two games and promises more victories. If this team comes through, all credit will be due to its commander, Lieutenant King.

With the spirit that is Business' own behind them, and such splendid officers, Business is sure to figure on the Drill Field. They have a winning combination and will be strong contenders for the flag.

THE Business High School Council, organized in 1917, consists of three faculty members appointed for one year by the Principal and eight pupils, elected semi-annually, to represent the eight semesters of the school. It is the duty of the Council to make recommendations for the apportionment of funds to the various school activities which are dependent upon it for support, and to approve the creation of new organizations and the several entertainments of the year, the proceeds from which are to fill the treasury for the coming year. All recommendations are subject to the final approval of the Principal.

This year a lunch counter has been established, and a Radio Club is being organized. Three entertainments, the annual spring play, the proceeds from the lunch counter, and the sale of athletic tickets have well filled the treasury for the coming year.

The Council wishes to express its appreciation to those teachers and pupils who have made possible so successful a year by their willing assistance in presenting plays, in supporting our teams, and in patronizing the entertainments given.

MARGUERITE DONNALLY.

The Balance Sheet

THE Balance Sheet, Business High School's official publication, has now completed its twenty-sixth year. The Staff feels that it has been a very successful one.

The efforts of every member of that staff have been continually directed toward making the school paper a publication by the students, for the students, and especially toward making it the pulse of school spirit. Throughout the year helpful criticisms from the faculty, frequent words of appreciation from both faculty and students, and much favorable comment from other school magazines throughout the country, have done much toward making the Balance Sheet what it is.

The Business Staff, under the able supervision of Miss Watts as Faculty Adviser, with Anna Kennelly and Bertha Marggraf as Business Manager and Assistant, obtained nearly a thousand subscribers—more than ever before in the history of the paper. Ellsworth Rue, as Advertising Manager, rolled up twelve pages of ads. Thus we were able to publish four twenty-eight page, and two twenty-page numbers.

The same spirit of hearty co-operation which characterized the Business Staff existed also in the Literary Staff, with Miss Yoder as Faculty Adviser. Meetings were held weekly, where plans were worked out, and questions toward the betterment of the paper were discussed. The social side of Staff life was represented by a very successful dance during the Easter holidays, for both Business and Literary Staffs.

Of the many departments of the paper, the editorial was one of the most successful, having more than the ordinary number of contributors who brought before the students and teachers many questions of vital interest to them both. Fiction was again brought back to more prominence and each issue offered at least one good story. The Alumni were represented by the "Alumni" department, under the able editorship of Merwin H. Brown. "Exchanges," under Rachel Fry and John Wahl, kept the school in close touch with other schools throughout the country. "School News," edited by Lillian Meade, with Elsie Smart, Marianne Spellbring, and Mildred Pierpont as assistants, reported the different school activities in excellent form. Charles Sincell, with Jennie Wender and Regina Schloer, directed and reported class-room sayings in such wonderful fashion that the "School Gossip" section continued to merit the high appreciation which that department has always enjoyed. "Cadets," upheld by Elmo Hahn and George Anadale, was most successful, and kept the school informed of cadet activities, at the same time furnishing a means of instruction for the cadets. "Boys' Athletics" reported the interscholastic sports in very good fashion and kept alive the interest of the students in their teams, under the direction of Alfred McGarraghy, with Robert Greenwood as assistant. Frances Burns and Agnes Hammett had charge of "Girls' Athletics," proving by their work that the girls have an important place in the athletics of the school. To William MacKay goes the credit for having one of the most successful departments in the paper, "Humor." This department offered the subscribers many witty sayings and jokes, and proved to be, perhaps, the most popular section of the publication. Two features of the magazine which helped in a great way toward the success of the paper were the excellent poetry, and the cartoons. Marie Collins and Franc Schreiner contributed most of the poems and their work was highly appreciated by the school. The Balance Sheet was fortunate in having on its staff Aubrey Lee, DeVee Kolar, and Margaret Cook as artists. Everyone will agree that their work is indeed far above the average high school work.

As almost every member of the Balance Sheet Staff graduates in June, the 1923 Staff will be new and inexperienced. We are sure, however, that its twenty-seventh year will find the Balance Sheet better than ever, for the sons and daughters of Business never fail to respond eagerly to her call, and to prove themselves worthy of responsibilities. We of 1922 wish the new Staff the best of luck.

LOUISE WORLEY, Secretary-Treasurer

MRS. M. H. SHARP, Faculty Adviser

WONDERFUL progress has been made by the Girls' Rifle Team since its organization in 1920. Many new members were admitted when the club was reorganized in December. They practiced shooting under the able direction of Stacy Middleton and William Jose.

Several are individual stars on the rifle range, but one brought honor to the school outside of it. Gladys Becker, Captain, won fame for Business High School when she matched the captain of the team of the University of Maryland. Other members of the team won the Pro-Marksman Medal given by the Winchester Rifle Association in addition to the felt "B," the school's recognition of their skill. In a match with Central High School, they made a good showing; and at Marshall Hall, when the match with the Boys' Rifle Team was held, the girls proved excellent shots.

STACY MIDDLETON, Captain

MR. K. N. PARKINSON, Faculty Adviser

THE Rifle Team this year has met with great success, the boys winning second place in the District High School Championship Match and tying for first in the Astor Cup Match. Business and Central were the outstanding teams in the District Outdoor Match. George Anadale and Stacy Middleton, with scores of 199 and 200, respectively, were the chief contenders for the Stokes Cup, the outdoor match deciding the winner. These boys are members of the Brigade Rifle Team, which shot against Annapolis Military Academy.

THE Book Shop, which the Senior Class of June, 1920, left as a gift to Business, has thrived under the steady hand of its chairman and his two able assistants. Although in great need of more space, the Shop has transacted business to such an extent that the sales from September 20 to February 15 amounted to $1,640.40, and the purchases to $1,273.81. By March 1, approximately $100.00 had been deposited in the Bank to the credit of the Shop. We are certain that all the students desire to see this organization find such quarters as will provide for its expansion.

AFTER an absence of seven years, we again have a dramatic society. Its purpose is to foster and promote an interest in English well spoken, to aid in interpreting the masterpieces of English literature, and to stage such productions as may be of value to the participants therein and the audience. The club has on its roster the names of one hundred members, some of whom appeared in the Armistice Pageant and others of whom starred in our Spring Play, "Such a Little Queen."

MISS SELMA M. BORCHARDT, Faculty Adviser

THE year 1921-22 will, no doubt, go down in Business High history as one of the most successful years that the Daniel Webster Club, the oldest club in the school, has ever experienced. Starting the year with an enrollment of about ten members, it grew until now, at the close of school, it is a thriving organization with a membership of over thirty-five.

All of these members have taken an active interest in the club and there was none who, when called upon for support, failed to respond to the call. It was this spirit of co-operation among the members that helped in a great way toward the club's obtaining so many glories.

Through the efforts of Miss Borchardt, the Faculty Adviser, and a committee appointed, a debate was arranged with the debaters of Emerson Institute. Emerson upheld the affirmative and Business the negative side of the question, "Resolved, That the Five-Plan Compensation Bill should be adopted." The members of the club who represented Business so well as to win the debate were Margaret Ryan, Erna Otto, Gladys Evans, and Maurice Robbin.

The annual debate of the club, held in the Auditorium of the school during the early part of June, was on the subject, "Resolved, That the United States should recognize the present Mexican government." The affirmative side was represented by Margaret Ryan, Erna Otto, and Maurice Robbin; the negative, by Marie Collins, Sarah Cafritz, and Alfred McGarraghy. The subject proved very interesting to the members of the club and to the general public, who was invited.

The retiring officers and members who are leaving wish next year's members as much pleasure and benefit from the club as they have derived from being identified with it.

MISS E. L. THOMPSON, Faculty Adviser

THE Glee Club has done some splendid work this year under the direction of Mrs. B. H. Smart. On January 16, 17, and 18 the Alumni gave a vaudeville show at Business. One of the acts which brought its share of applause was the singing by members of the club. At that time there were but eleven members: Elsie Smart, Evelyn Davis, DeVee Kolar, Erna Otto, Marianne Spellbring, Alice Tupman, Thomas du Fief, Darrell Calker, James Atkinson, Clarence Clarridge, and Clifton Clarridge, with Doris Schutz accompanying at the piano.

Since February, Miss Thompson has become leader, and the club has increased its membership. It is expecting great things for 1923.

THE Business High School Orchestra has been increasing steadily until it now has an active membership of thirty-five. Mrs. Butts ably served as adviser to the Orchestra until February, when Miss Thompson, appointed to the position of music teacher, assumed the duties. The Orchestra has played for our regular assemblies as well as for several school dances, our Christmas Play, the Alumni Vaudeville Show, the Senior Vaudeville Show, and the Spring Play.

This organization deserves much credit for the splendid service it has rendered the school. We can well be proud of it.

SKILLFUL management by the officials, an unusually large number of regular depositors, and the hearty spirit of co-operation exhibited by the teachers and students, have all helped to make 1921-1922 a prosperous year for the Bank. Its accounting system fairly bristles with rapidly growing individual accounts; in fact, four bookkeepers are kept busy. Both the personnel and the working hours have been increased to accommodate the unusual amount of business. For the support attributable to the faculty and students, the officers desire to extend their most sincere thanks.

The Amikero Friendship Club

ETHEL CARPENTER, President
 REGINA SCHLOER, Vice President
 ELIZABETH TOWNSEND, Secretary
 MARGARET COX, Treasurer

THE Friendship Club was rather late this year in organizing, but when it did get started, the end of the school year was the only thing that could stop it. The social activities of the club included several parties, a banquet, a dance, and a farewell party, besides an occasional meeting with the members of other Friendship Clubs.

At Christmas, the girls entertained the soldiers at Walter Reed Hospital, and a little later gave a party to twenty-five children at an orphanage.

The club is much larger this year than last, but it expects to grow until practically all the girls in the school are members. Those of the club who are leaving school in June wish it all success in its worthy enterprise.

 VICTOR ALBAGLI, Treasurer
 MISS SELMA M. BORCHARDT, Faculty Adviser

THE second year of the Me-Ma-So was an enjoyable and prosperous one. The club sponsored a most successful dance on March 17, by means of which it brought the students together and increased the funds of the Students' Council.

 FRANC SCHREINER, Herald of the Court
 DOROTHY RILEY, Scribe

TAKE heed! The Sacred Society of Osiris has indeed been active in the last year. Its assemblies have been the liveliest and most enjoyable in the school, for were they not directed by the sacred snake of wisdom, which forms the insignia of this exalted organization, and imbued with the spirit of the sacred pledge, which all must accept before becoming members? Osiris, favor us!

The Officers' Club

RICHARD H. HART, President
 MERRITT L. SMITH, Vice President
 GERALD R. TRIMBLE, Secretary
 LEROY S. MANN, Treasurer

THIS school year saw for the first time an Officers' Club, consisting of former as well as the present Business officers in the Cadet Corps. On the first Friday in each month the members met at Business High School to find ways in which to help the companies that compose the Second Battalion. The club established a Cadet Unit Exchange for the purpose of providing suits for boys who wished to join the Cadet Corps, but who were not financially able to do so. Several dances were given to bring all the boys together. This is a great organization for the benefit of Business High School boys. May it continue its good work here as long as the Alma Mater remains!

Football

THE most successful of the past five seasons—this is perhaps the best way to characterize the team that represented Business in football during the season of 1921.

Only five members of the 1920 team answered the first call for candidates. These were DuFief, Greenwood, McIntyre, Smith, and Captain McGarraghy. Despite this handicap, we went to work. Later we were fortunate in having quite a few boys enroll from the other high schools. Among those to enter Business and come out for the team were Lanigan, Cummings, Calker, Clarridge, Bangs, Day, Cooperman, and Clark. With this experienced squad, the help of quite a few promising candidates, and the excellent coaching of Mr. Kelley, Business succeeded in turning out a team of which she can always be proud.

The team and school were fortunate in having Mr. Kelley as coach. It was his excellent work that brought to Business a fighting team. Every man fought for victory from the beginning to the end of every game. For the first time in eight years, Business had three men picked for all-high positions. These men are Raymond Barrett, Thomas DuFief, and Ralph Lanigan.

At a meeting of the letter men Robert Greenwood, a member of the class of 1921, was elected captain of our next year's team. Bob, who has played two years of football at Business, was one of the best guards in the high schools this year. He will prove a good leader for Business. With such a captain as Greenwood, the excellent coaching of Mr. Kelley, and the return of such experienced men as Thomas DuFief, Ralph Bangs, Thomas Bromley, Clifton Clarridge, Edward McIntyre, Raymond Barrett, Morris Clark, James Cummings, Darrell Calker, Charles Cooperman, and Leon Neviasser, Business can be prepared for a championship football team next fall.

ALFRED MCGARRAGHY, Captain.

Basketball

THE basketball team of Business High School finished in second place this year as the result of hard and faithful work on the part of every member. Business was unfortunate in having only two of last year's men back; but before the team, which was picked from fifteen or twenty candidates, had played more than three games, you would have thought they were all veterans. Later in the season one of the members had the honor of being picked for the first all-high team, and one for the second.

The team started the year with a win from Epiphany, but in its second game lost, by a small margin, to Gonzaga on the latter's floor. Later in the season we defeated Gonzaga on our floor in a hard-fought game. Probably the greatest surprise to the followers of the Orange and Blue was the result of the Episcopal game which was played at Alexandria. With a team composed of two ex-captains and three veterans, Episcopal was able to defeat Business by only three points, the score being 14-11. The game in which the Business team played its best was the Business-Tech game, when Business defeated Tech in an extra period of five minutes. The result of the C. U.-Business game will show you just where Business stands as compared with the other high schools. C. U. was defeated by only two teams. Business was one of these, Central the other. In the high school series, Business defeated every school at least once, with the exception of the champions.

The team always seemed to have the fight and punch to come back in a game and win, when at half time they were behind. In the second Central game, the half ended 18-9 in favor of Central. When Business came on to the floor in the last half, the boys fought and brought the score so close that they gave the Central team the biggest scare it received in the whole high school series.

Captain-elect Connor is unusually fortunate in having back next season all of this year's men, with the exception of one player, to build up a team which we all hope will finish first.

Business is exceptionally lucky in having such a captain as Tommie Connor. He is a hard worker and a star, and will undoubtedly give his all to bring a winning team to Business. We wish him success.

THOMAS V. DENNIS, Captain.

Inter-Semester Basketball

INTER-SEMESTER basketball was again started this year and proved to be very successful. Some good material was discovered for next year's team. At the end of the regular season, three teams were tied for first place—the Third, Fifth, and Eighth Semesters. The Sixth finally won out in one of the best and hardest fought series ever held in B. H. S.

Coontz and Lewis, forwards, two of the best players in the series, always caused their guards plenty of worry. Chaconas, center, was the best all-around player in the series, starring in every game. Captain Bromley, Reichs, and Broderich were all good guards, as was shown by the low scores of their opponents.

All in all, the season was very successful, made so in a great measure by the efforts put forth by Coach Kelley. The Sixth Semester takes this opportunity to extend its thanks to the other teams for their help in making the past season such a success.

Athletics

DURING the present year, Business has competed favorably in athletics with the other high schools in the District and, all things considered, has done very well. In football, basketball, and baseball our teams have more than held their own, and at the present writing the baseball team is in the running for the championship.

Due to the support of the Council in outfitting the teams, we have had a greater number of candidates in every sport than for many seasons. This augurs well for the future. The proper equipment of teams sustains interest among the boys and aids considerably in the prevention of serious accidents, especially in football. It is to be hoped that in the future the Council will continue to lend its support.

In the opinion of the writer, the main difficulty in arousing good school spirit comes from a succession of defeats which seem to be taken as a matter of fact. This year our victories have acted as a tonic to the student body, and the enthusiasm shown in all sports has given us the will to win which should pervade our teams.

The coach has endeavored to instil in all the teams the spirit of sportsmanship and fair play and has been concerned not merely with the making of athletes, but, more important, the building up of the boy's character by sports.

Baseball

THE first week in April found Coach Kelley calling for candidates for baseball. We found only two veteran players, Donovan and Watt, to answer; but when the new blood started coming we gained Band, Haas, Clark, Cliff Clarridge, Clarence Clarridge, and Styles from the Freshman class, and Connor, Mensh, and Simpson from the upper class, with McAuliffe and French, who came to us from Western. A team picked from these promising candidates took the high number of a 4 to 2 score from St. Alban's. In this game Acting Captain Tommie Connor, who was appointed to succeed Captain Barrett, made a brilliant display, as well as Haas and the heavy hitting Clarridge twins.

Business started the high school series by defeating the Eastern High nine by a score of 14 to 8. Although Roudabush pitched a stellar game for Eastern, he was hit often by our men. We played two practice games, losing one to the fast Mount St. Joseph team and winning the other from Gonzaga College, before encountering the Tech team, which we succeeded in defeating by a score of 8 to 4. It was in this game that Business displayed its greatest hitting ability, every man on the team scoring at least one hit. We next took the measure of the G. U. Freshmen on the Hilltop by a score of 6 to 4. Although the college outclassed us in fielding, we hit hard and often.

We feel confident in saying that the team representing Business for the 1922 season was second to none since 1911. Its success is due to the support given by the team to our efficient coach, Mr. Kelley. Prospects for the coming season look more promising than ever before, as the entire squad will be back to report for duty next spring.

The Coach and the writer take this opportunity to express their appreciation of the interest shown and support given by the squad during the past season and their confidence that such enthusiasm during the coming season will insure success.

THOMAS DUFIEF, Manager.

Championship Team--"Green" Fourth Semester

Girls' Basketball

THE call to basketball this year received a hearty response, even the rookies answering with zest. Hard work and good shooting featured the practice, and the Exhibition Game played on December 10 made the boys change their opinions concerning Girls' Basketball. A little later, in February, the teams bade good-bye to Frances Burns and Evelyn Davis, two of the finest basketball stars that have ever attended Business.

With the nearing of the Championship Games, every girl put forth her best efforts to the effect that the games were cleanly fought and won only after a good battle, the "Green" Fourth being victorious.

In May, the basketball girls turned their attention to tennis, and many exciting games were played. Miss Sanderlin arranged and accompanied them on their annual picnic, where everyone had a wonderful time. Between basketball and tennis, the athletic girls feel that they have had a more than successful year, and look forward to as great a season, if not better, in 1923.

Books!

The school books had a convention,
And each presented his case.
"I'm a mighty fine Algebra book,
And I give the students a race."
"That's nothing," said Reigner's Shorthand,
"Indeed it is plain to see,
I'm the one the students like best—
They get dictated to out of me."
"There's naught they like better than typing,
I have figures and letters; just look.
I'm the talk of the whole convention,
I'm a Fritz-Eldridge Typewriting
Book."
"You are all mistaken," said Halleck.
"My English is wonderfully fine."
"That's not the object," said Physics,
"I'm practical and gen-u-ine."
The chairman arose and pounded,
To order the meeting came.
His voice was deep and resounding;
Few there knew his name,
"The larger are more important—
They have more fire in their guns.
I'm the very best text-book here;
The students call me 'Twelve Tons.'"

Seniors

Oh, Seniors, oh, Seniors, your fearful trip is done.
Your brains have weather'd every rack,
The prize you sought is won.
The time is near. Oh, do you hear?
Your hour is nearly past.
With eyes that speak of victory,
You are finished now at last.
Oh, Seniors, oh, Seniors, your leadership
doth end,
Until you win another place,
As through the world you wend.
For you, bouquets and ribbon'd wreaths,
Do quickly pass away,
As now your time to leave has come,
In June—the twentieth day.
Oh, Seniors, oh, Seniors, your easy life is o'er.
The world you face, and unknown paths,
With worries, yes, a score.
Work hard and study with your might,
And very soon again,
Atop the ladder you will be—
Trust my prophetic pen.

Receipt for the B. H. S. Year Book

(Contributed by the Fates.)

Several easy marks—called Editor's
Staff.

A full measure of class spirit.
A dash of ideas.
Several thousand grey hairs.
A number of wrinkles.
One dozen bottles of ink.
Plenty of paper.
A few headaches.
A bunch of sighs (according to the size of the book).
Stir with the faculty adviser's blue
pencil and send to press.
You will then have

One Year Book
and
One Thousand Bills to Collect.

Then

In olden days the teachers dear
Were something every lad did fear.
With rod in hand she bade them work;
Because of fear they dared not shirk—
Her piercing voice, and darting eye—
Work they surely must or die.

Now

But now the times have changed indeed;
No longer is the rod in need.
Cooperation is the force
That helps but never leaves remorse.
The teachers now are mild and sweet—
Diplomacy the rod doth beat.
M. E. C.

Roll Call

"McGarraghy!" came the teacher's voice,
No answer—busy man,
For he was in his office,
An editor's job in hand.

"George Anadale!" her voice rang out,
He, too, was out of class;
Cadet work, he had much to do—
He could not let it pass.

"Franc Schreiner!" said the teacher then,
"Where on earth is she?"
In her office writing fast—
An author she will be.

The teacher, in an awful rage,
Cried, "What's the use of this?"
These Seniors stay out of their class—
Four days of five they miss!"

So do the Seniors earn their marks
A-staying out of class;
But have no fear, they do their work,
They really must, to pass.

M. E. C.

Lis'en Here!

Now undergraduates, see here—
This is of deep concern,
So lis'en close and 'tention show;
Dark secrets you will learn.

Our burdens and our troubles too,
Will rest upon your heart;
Responsibilities and all,
Are yours when we depart.

We leave to you our skipping rights;
The table round is yours;
We leave our friends, the teachers,
Who're ever waging wars.

You now may travel up the steps,
Which arrows mark as "Down."
And yes—may come in when you please,
And teacher will not frown.

We leave to you our privilege,
Of getting E's each day,
And telling Mr. Davis what
You think, without dismay.

Yea, all these things we leave, and more,
To practice every day.
Perfection comes with practice, so
Begin now; don't delay.

SENIORISMS

OF THE CLASS OF JUNE, 1922

ONE FOR ALL

ALL FOR ONE

WILLIAM G. MacKAY, ETHEL CARPENTER, Editors

As They Ramble By

Past the round table goes the crowd—the Seniors of 1922. Let's see who's there.

Who is that tall languid youth talking so fast to his friend? Why, that's Joe Gaghan, the greatest continuous speaker in the class. And there's Martha Lavisson. Cute little blonde, isn't she? Over at the door are Marianne Spellbring, Virginia Dyer and Mary Hurney—very collegiate. There goes Florence, our vamp. I'll say she is! And that's long Johnnie Wahl, the third period singing class Caruso. He's a wicked man with the women. Just across is Rosella Loftus, the collegiateest collegiate; and the inseparables, Evelyn Rich and Catherine Forteney. There go the Collins twins, Marie and Peggy. Only one of them goes to class at a time. School is pretty easy for them, because they take turns, and the teachers never know it. It's great to be a twin. Behind them are the Cafritz and Baron sisters and the culinary twins, Fry and Cook. And there's Henry Louis, the geometry wizard. He holds a record for flunking the greatest number of times in first semester geometry. And who are these? The very, very quiet girls of the class—Muriel Hazel, Violet Widenmeyer, Ruth Wineberger, and Mary Sansbury. What's that boy doing over there? Why, he's chewing a piece of Berwyn straw. That's Eddie Dement. Here come the Year Book typists, Gertrude Schnede and Wenonah Platz—and here is noisy Tastet. When he's quiet, something's wrong somewhere.

See that tall and stately maiden? That's Anna Kennelly, who is always raving about the Dodge brothers (when she isn't raving about subscriptions for the Year Book). At the door is Jennie Wender, the champion fast talker, and Chris Burton, the heavyweight of the class. She is also a champ in Business Organization. See the girl with the Bible in her hand? That's Aline Anderson. She is very pious and expects to be a missionary to the Hula Hulas. With her are little Mabel Taylor, the chief errand boy of 52, and Gertrude Kidwell, the expert stenog of the section. The girl over in the corner reading a book is Florence Rizzo, who hasn't anything but E's on her reports. Those two girls with the cameras are Florence Miller and Gertrude Dove, and they are snapping Elwood Kinder, the boy who believes in that old one about "Silence is golden." Who is that awfully handsome boy? That's Eppa Darne, who comes to classes at least once a week. And look at that! What? Goldman. Yes, he thinks clubs are needed to play Congo golf. Down the corridor are Margaret Jamieson, the basketball marvel, and Lillian Meade, who is such a wizard at writing locals for the Balance Sheet. With them are Louise Brown and Ethel Tuck. When one of them is around the other is sure to be hovering near by.

The girls who just passed us are Irene Heffner and Helen Stickel, who journey in to school every day from the tall grass regions, without the city limits. Walking down the hall is Tanglefoot Johnnie Sprague with Albagli, the Spanish-speaking wonder—it's a gift. There is Mildred Pierpont, the bankeress, and Mildred Stokes, a little girl who gets a medal for being around and unheard. Hear that? Thunder? No, it's not thunder. It's Louis Silverman talking! You ask what those shrieks are. Why, that's Elsie Smart, DeVee Kolar, and Erna Otto. They are regular Glucks at singing. And that's Helen Collins. No, she's not a sister of the twins. The girl with the changeable silk skirt and the business-like walk is Cecelia Larman. After her comes Rita Goldberg, who goes home for lunch every day because she says a hot lunch is very healthful. Over there is Ethel Carpenter, the humorist of 378. What is everyone laughing at? At MacKay, of course—that is, I mean at one of his jokes. Who is the boy with the fur cap on? Why, that's Daniel Boone Whitson, the hunter of the class. He usually goes after big game when he hunts—squirrels, rabbits, and once in a while a blackbird. There's Bertha Marggraf, the belle of 378, and Blanche Philpitt, essayist, who won a prize in the Star Essay Contest. Bright girl. And here comes Anna Simpson, who is lost since her inseparable, Violet Houghlan, left school. Who is that laughing? Why that's Doris Bauman, the little girl who is always laughing. And hear that terrible wheeze? That's Terrett murdering his saxophone.

Well, everybody's gone now. They certainly are a fine bunch of girls and boys—the best class that has ever graduated from B. H. S. They're all so intelligent, good-looking, and innocent. We only hope that these children will be protected from above, when they face the cruel, cruel world, as they have been here at Business, by their kind, good, indulgent teachers. Years hence, when you fellows are old men with shaky legs, gout, rheumatism, grouch, and goatee or grey sideburns, with the frosty rime of age upon your heads, and you girls are grandmothers, widows, or old maids, old-fashioned and very particular, you will glance back upon the fleeting course of time and recall your high school life with a "smile on your lips and a tear in your eye." And when granddaughter or grandson asks you why you are laughing, you will say, "I was just thinking of a class as was a class." It's time to stop—there goes the bell!

Poetically Speaking

"Shall rear her form to stately height." Gladys Evans.

"Sweetest little girlie, everybody knows." Ethel Tucker.

"Shoot if you must this old grey head!" Trent Ainsworth.

"Sometimes from her eyes I did receive fair speechless messages." Agnes Hammett.

"Of stature tall and slender frame." Charles Sincell.

"It was her eye as bonny blue." Martha Lavisson.

"Blessings on thee, little man." Rue.

"Frank, haughty, rash—the Rupert of debate." Middleton.

"Have you e'er heard of gallant-like young Lochinvar?" Anadale.

"He was a very parfit gentil knight." Lefevre.

"His studie was but litel on the Bible." Joe Gaghan.

"A bold, bad man." John Kolar.

"He makes sweet music with enameled stones." Kronman.

"Is she not passing fair?" Dorothy Lauten.

"I am Sir Oracle, and when I ope my lips let no dog bark." Zirkon.

"Men of few words are the best men." Darne.

"I only speak right on." King.

"Get money; still get money, boy." Carl Levy.

We will now all join in singing that wonderful song, "Good-bye Forever," to Messrs. Burke and Macbeth.
